Middleby Marshall was honored with "Silver Award" for Best Equipment for the Texas Association for School Nutrition in 2011.

April 24, 2012 (Elgin, Ill.) – Middleby Marshall was recently honored by the Texas Association for School Nutrition (TASN) with the “Silver Award” for best school foodservice equipment.

“With schools moving toward healthier meals, foodservice professionals want great tasting, easy to prepare lunches,” said Mark Sieron, President of Middleby Marshall. “Our conveyor ovens help the school foodservice kitchens operate more efficiently and save costs while producing consistently great tasting food students enjoy.”

Accepting the award on behalf of Middleby Marshall was Texas-based representative Bill Dickie Enterprises. In attendance from the group were Bill Dickie, Sr., John Ward, Bill Dickie Jr. and Todd Dickie.

The Texas Association for School Nutrition is a professional organization for all levels of school food service professionals. TASN provides resources that enhance and promote non-profit child nutrition programs for the benefit of our schoolchildren. TASN is committed to providing leadership assistance, nutritional information, and program guidance to all school food authorities in developing effective and comprehensive nutrition services.
